Course Description

This course is a comprehensive survey of Newark, a combined literature/cultural studies seminar and anthropological field work course designed to explore and map Newark in various disciplines, including literature, history, film, politics, religion, architecture, and sociology. It will be provisional and investigative, based on knowledge accrued and acquired, delving into various possible lines and intersections of inquiry. We will be cartographers of the cosmopolis, generating new insights into the various meanings about cities and city life.

Requirements

You are expected to keep up with the reading in the texts and complete all assigned exercises. Classroom participation is essential. The seminar format for this course requires discussion, a constellation of active, energetic voices. If you are not inclined or comfortable at discoursing at length about our various topics, issues, and themes, this course might not be right for you. Participation can also take the shape of various other engagements, including Moodle forum posts, written commentaries or suggestions, and other input not assigned. A full 20 points accounts for participation alone so keep this point of order in mind.

I will ask that you bring responses to particular texts under discussion each week and compile a weekly writing journal based on your writing experience, classroom reactions, and any other thoughts related to this course and this city. You will be utilizing MOODLE 2.0 and expected to interact with its contents regularly. Find the link at http://njit2.mrooms.net.

Keep in mind that MOODLE 2.0 will both complement, supplement and, at times, correct the syllabus in terms of timetables, scheduled speakers, field trips and content.
Presentation/Performance

In keeping with the rhetorical ambitions of this course as an active seminar, we will undertaking collectively a performative project in conjunction with Gallery Aferro in downtown Newark. More details will be forthcoming as this project develops over the course of the semester. Be ready for creative participation, including performances ranging from dramatic acting to recitation of relevant course materials to imaginary interpretation of collaborative writings and scripts. You are not expected to be a seasoned actor or interpreter but this being a master class in imagination, interpretation, and inquiry, you should dedicate yourself to the roles you will cultivate as dynamic dramatists of various Newark Narratives.

Field Work Project

You are required to undertake Field Work in preparation of ONE of TWO final projects that will help construct and map your understanding of the city. This labor will also help you understand the logic of how we theorize and imagine Newark in relation to some of the key ethical and aesthetic issues of this course. Your approach can be flexible and multi-disciplinary and should include at least 2-3 relevant interviews. All interview subjects should be either residing in Newark or working in its borders. No interview subject should be affiliated with NJIT or Rutgers-Newark. I encourage you to immerse yourself in the urban community and its urban environment. Literary focus is not necessary. However, as you should be establishing connections between the course particulars and the realities you encounter beyond campus. You can explore art, culture, history, music, architecture, sports, civil rights activism, housing and commercial realty, education, power companies, grassroots organizations, rehabilitation centers, et cetera. Please consult with me about your ideas and I shall offer intensive oversight throughout your project.

The structure of this project will consist of:

— an abstract/introduction of your subject and reasons for pursuing it (2-3 pages)

—a transcription of entire or partial interview or link to audio files or other embedded web-based

—a 5-7 page discussion of your vision, methodology, conclusions, change or deepening of perspective, the necessity of your work and its potential use-value, relationship to this course and its possible enhancement of its pedagogical underpinnings

Final Project

The Final Project can be either a substantial extension of your mid-term paper (10-12 pages) or a non-text-based work (with supplementary explanatory notes concerning its creation) relating to this course and your experience in it. Some examples include (and are not limited to): video diaries, site photography, music, poetry sequences, short stories, paintings, filmed excerpts of various texts, statistical analysis of City Hall budget, comparisons of local public and charter schools, restaurant guides, historical demographic trends, real estate studies, and on and on. We will devote considerable time to discussing and developing these projects.

NJIT University Code on Academic Integrity

“Academic Integrity is the cornerstone of higher education and is central to the ideals of this course and the university. Cheating is strictly prohibited and devalues the degree that you are working on. As a member of the NJIT community, it is your responsibility to protect your educational investment by knowing and following the academic code of integrity policy that is found at:

Roundtable Discussion

Is Fiction not True? Historically inaccurate or non-existent? What is the difference between a truthful narrative and a fabricated one (is there a difference?)? How can art at times clarify or intensify our relationship to reality? American Pastoral is both the exquisite and exhaustive centerpiece of this course and a contemporary classic of literature. Its interrogation and critique of our (pre)conceptions of narrative, America, Newark, and how we can view the lives of others or fail to comprehend the vast complicated layers of ourselves and others are sharp and yet inconclusive. How can we establish criteria for novelistic narrative’s ability to animate, clarify, illuminate, and deconstruct our lives?
